Three Year Old Child Burned To Death Monday

A Thanksgiving Day fire in the Kelowna area claimed the life of a three-year-old girl and left three others in hospital, two in critical condition.

The blaze started in a three-bedroom house on Joe Rich Rd. east of Rutland, Kelowna, on the property of Mrs. Annette Rhyno, 33, and her husband, Mr. Gary Lawrence Rhyno, 33, who came to the district from Dartmouth, Nova Scotia, recently.

The baby sister and two other children are in Kelowna General Hospital. Dr. A. W. N. Drutt, of Rutland, said Mary Gore, 16, is suffering burns to 50 per cent of her body. Luanna Rhyno, one year old, is in the same condition, suffering 30 per cent burns, said Dr. Drutt. Rachael Rhyno, three months old, was not burned, but is suffering from suffocation. She is doing well, Dr. Drutt said.

Breedlove's Three Wheeled Car Raises His Speed Record Again

BONNEVILLE SALT FLATS, Utah (AP)—Craig Breedlove set a world land speed record today, whirling his Spirit of America along these western salt flats at an average of 468.72 miles an hour. The 28-year-old Californian became the third man to break the record in the past two weeks. The one Breedlove broke was set eight days ago by Art Arfons, who averaged 434.02 miles an hour. Breedlove's first pass over the measured mile was timed at 422.59 m.p.h. He streaked back at 498.13 m.p.h. The two-way average was established as the record. Breedlove's car was powered by a J17 jet engine and has only three wheels, which allows it to be classed as a motorcycle in international records. The car, like those of the Arfons brothers, works on jet thrust without the engine turning the wheels directly. Because of this, the record isn't recognized by the International Auto Federation in Paris, which considers the 403.14 m.p.h. set by Donald Campbell last July in a turbine-powered car the world record.

QUEBEC STOP CALLED INSULT TO MONARCH—OTTAWA VISIT WARM

Queen Ends Sometimes Troubled Visit

OTTAWA (CP)—The Queen ended her sometimes troubling eight-day visit to Canada today when she departed by Air Canada jet for London.

"She behaved magnificently," Prime Minister Pearson said when asked for a comment on the Royal visit by a Canadian Press reporter.

"She's a great Queen," he added. Asked what the Queen had said just before her airport departure, Mr. Pearson replied: "She thanked us for inviting her and said she greatly enjoyed the trip."

With following winds, the Air Canada DC-8 jet was scheduled to arrive in London at 9:07 p.m. London time. Prince Philip, up long before the crack of dawn, left Ottawa five hours ahead of the Queen for a duck-shooting trip on a St. Lawrence River island near Quebec City. He boards the Royal yacht Britannia later today for a Caribbean visit. Thousands of Ottawans turned out in the rain to bid the Queen farewell.

ACKNOWLEDGES CHEERS The Queen could acknowledge the waves and cheers of persons lining the route from Government House to the airport. This made the scheduled departure 18 minutes late. The Queen wore a gold wool suit and matching beret and brown accessories. Three members of the RCMP guard of honor faltered before the Queen's arrival.

The Queen presided Monday night at a glittering and sumptuous banquet at Rideau Hall for Canada's provincial premiers.

The Queen started the day by placing a wreath at the National War Memorial. The large square was nearly filled with people on the chilly but bright Thanksgiving morning.

While it was a pleasant holiday and royal occasion, security precautions remained tight. Police with binoculars scanned the crowds from rooftops. Police barriers were freshly painted a dark green and both they and the policemen themselves seemed more discreet than the bright yellow barriers and flanking orange topcoats worn by nightstick-wielding police in Quebec.

The rest of Monday's events took place inside Government House.

RECEIVES DIPLOMATS The Queen and prince received Commonwealth high commissioners and heads of other diplomatic missions. Then the Queen's dinner for the premiers followed.

In total, the Queen's visit to Ottawa was warm, graceful and friendly.

The crowd reaction was quite different in Quebec Saturday. While visiting the legislature to deliver a speech in impeccable French on recognition of Canada's diversities, the Queen was booed.

At the Citadel, the Queen reviewed troops recognizing the 50th anniversary of the founding of the Royal 22nd Regiment, the Canadian Army's premier French regiment. While lighting an eternal flame commemorating the regiment's war dead, a crowd stormed the outer ramparts of the old fortress, shouting "Le Quebec pour les Quebecois" (Quebec for Quebecers).

And in the evening, while attending a state dinner given by the province at the Chateau Frontenac Hotel, seuffles broke out between police and separatist demonstrators all over the city.

An estimated 35 were arrested, many of them after being clubbed by municipal police nightsticks. The crowds in Quebec were noisy and, except for a few scattered cheers and the noisy shouts of the youthful demonstrators, mainly silent.

Premier Lesage later commented that many Quebecers, peaceful and hospitable by nature, stayed away from the royal processions because of the threats of trouble made in advance by the terrorists.

The Quebec reception was reported abroad as a massive insult to the Queen of Canada, blackening the name of Canada around the world. The Queen's only public appearance Sunday in Quebec was late in the afternoon when she drove from the yacht Britannia at Wolfe's Cove to Ancienne Lorette Airport. Crowds were larger, cheers were louder, and demonstrations less threatening.

Soviet Three Man Spaceship Returns To Earth Tuesday

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union's three-man spaceship returned to earth today, after more than 24 hours after it blasted off on a pioneering flight that kept the Russians well ahead in the space race.

The Soviet news agency Tass said the Voskhod 2 capsule landed safely at its prearranged spot in the Soviet Union at 10:41 a.m. EDT (10:41 a.m. local time) after 24 hours and 17 minutes after it had been blasted into orbit.

All three members of the Voskhod 2 crew are feeling well, Tass reported.

Soviet Premier Khrushchev, in a radio conversation with the three cosmonauts Monday, promised them the best of the Soviet Union, including the capital, traditionally given to space travelers.

"Be ready for the overloading which will arrange for you after you come back to earth," the premier said.

The three members of Voskhod's crew: Col. Vladimir Komarov, the pilot; scientist Konstantin Feoktistov and Dr. Boris Vologodski, the Soviet Union's first woman cosmonaut, were not at the landing.

The spaceship landed after 16 orbits. It was the first flight in space by a spaceship containing more than one man.

The program of scientific research, designed for 24 hours of flight, was accomplished in full, Tass said.

Valuable information was obtained about the flight of a group of cosmonauts consisting of specialists in different fields. For the first time, scientists were able to conduct observations directly in outer space.

The information obtained as a result of the flight is being tabulated and processed."

Although this announcement said in effect that only a 24-hour flight was planned, an announcement Monday said that the flight was to test the stresses and strains on man during a long flight.

However, a usually reliable source said that the satellite might stay up only two days.

The announcement of the landing said Voskhod had been up in orbit close to the predicted one. The orbit was highly elliptical with a maximum height of 253 miles and a minimum of 119 miles. There was speculation in Moscow that it was far enough off the predicted orbit to require an earlier landing than originally planned.

However, a spokesman at the city observatory in Bochum, West Germany, said it was believed that the cosmonauts had trouble with their transmitter sending signals back to earth. The spokesman said a comparison between Voskhod's signals and those from previous Soviet space ships showed Voskhod's transmitter was not functioning correctly.

In its duration, the flight fell far short of the previous record of 81 orbits by Soviet Lt. Col. Valery F. Bykovsky in June, 1963. His flight lasted 119 hours and six minutes, just under five days.

In Washington, James Webb, administrator of the U.S. National Aeronautics and Space Administration, said the Soviet flight was "a clear indication the Russians are continuing a large space program for the achievement of national power and prestige."

U.S. officials pointed out that the American space program does not call for a similar feat until 1968. Two-man Gemini space ships are scheduled to go into orbit early next year, however.

Ok. Landing Widow Shot

VERNON (Staff)—An Okanagan landing woman Mrs. Mabel Miller was found shot this morning in her home which is situated on the edge of Okanagan Lake, about 10 miles from the Vernon Club.

Veranda RCMP said Patricia Daniel Martin of Vernon has been charged with the capital murder of Mrs. Miller.

The house was roped off by RCMP and under their surveillance. Cpl. Jack Fehr from the Kelowna detachment was at the scene investigating.

The large house is framed on two sides by giant trees and undergrowth. The front is about 25 feet from the road.

Mrs. Miller is a long-time resident of the Okanagan Landing district and had moved into the new home within the past three years. Her husband died last spring.

Fehr would not disclose who read the woman of any details pertaining to the type of weapon used. It is not known whether she was living alone in the house. Mr. Martin apparently the Miller residence and had RCMP here did not disclose whether he has recently all the exact time the body was found. He has according to police found or who called with him lived in Vernon for a number of years. The shooting took place in a calm, wooded area near the Miller residence.

New Storm Nears Cuba

MIAMI Fla. (AP)—Tropical storm Erika, rapidly swirling up to hurricane force, is expected to strike Cuba today in a center that threatened the Florida coast.

The U.S. weather bureau said the storm would cross Cuba's western tip, emerge into the southeastern Gulf of Mexico a few hours after midnight, and reach hurricane intensity early Wednesday.

Then, he said, it will curve north to the eastward on a track toward Florida.

A weather bureau advisory at noon placed the storm center 40 miles south of Cuba's western tip.

Highest winds were estimated at 60 miles an hour around an eye which became better organized this morning. Gales extended out 70 miles in all directions. The storm was moving to the north-northeast at five miles an hour.

Kidnapped Colonel Released

CARACAS (AP)—Venezuelan communist terrorists released U.S. Air Force Lt. Col. Michael Smolen unharmed Monday night after two of the five-man gang who abducted him last Friday were arrested.

Smolen was put out of a car blindfolded about 11 p.m. on a street corner in eastern Caracas.

He said today he felt fine and reported he had been treated well.

Interior Minister Gonzalo Barrios said the two terrorists seized in a downtown Caracas apartment early Monday were Spaniards-born members of the Communist underground called the Armed Forces of National Liberation (AFNL). Reliable sources said nine other suspected terrorists were picked up later.

Smolen told reporters his abductors said they kidnapped him to make propaganda for Venezuela's democratic government.

The conference is a resumption of one last week to settle details of the amending formula approved in principle by the Charlottesville plenary conference Sept. 1.

Health Minister LaMarsh announced formation of the council July 16 as an independent body to advise her department on matters associated with the Food and Drugs Act and proprietary or patent medicine act—from a consumer point of view.

Dr. C. A. Morrell, head of the department's food and drugs directorate and council chairman, told the 15-member council—14 are women—possible topics of study will include food packaging, drug labeling, additives to food including color and vitamin advertising.

Mrs. B. P. Marill, a member of the Canadian Association of Consumers at Edmonton, said there are misconceptions about the council's terms of reference.

Prince Philip Bags Some Ducks At Early Morning Hunt Today

QUEBEC (CP)—Prince Philip shot several ducks and geese in the morning phase of his day of hunting today and his hunt, stakeholder William O'Brien, said in a telephone conversation that the outing "is indeed a pleasant one."

The two planned to go out again in the afternoon for more hunting on Beau-Rivage, 30 miles down the St. Lawrence from Quebec City.

The prince will hunt until about 4 p.m. and then return to his private camp on Beau-Rivage.

to the royal yacht Britannia, anchored two miles west of the island, for a trip that will take him to the Caribbean.

The weather was cold and the wind was blowing at 20 to 30 miles an hour. Snow started to fall early in the afternoon.

The prince arrived about 6 a.m. at L'Anse-au-Loup, a small port about a 45-minute flight from Ottawa. He boarded a Royal Canadian Navy helicopter for the trip to Mr. O'Brien's private camp on Beau-Rivage.

Consumers Advisory Council Begins First Meeting Today

OTTAWA (CP)—The food and drug directorate's newly created advisory council of consumers began its first meeting here today with a trilateral of its terms of reference.

Health Minister LaMarsh announced formation of the council July 16 as an independent body to advise her department on matters associated with the Food and Drugs Act and proprietary or patent medicine act—from a consumer point of view.

Dr. C. A. Morrell, head of the department's food and drugs directorate and council chairman, told the 15-member council—14 are women—possible topics of study will include food packaging, drug labeling, additives to food including color and vitamin advertising.

Mrs. B. P. Marill, a member of the Canadian Association of Consumers at Edmonton, said there are misconceptions about the council's terms of reference.

"I've been deluged with phone calls on every kind of consumer problem," she said. Other members indicated similar problems. Mrs. Marill said her callers wanted action on complaints ranging from those on used car sales to loan sharks.

Some soldiers were treated for cuts and bruises. Nobody was detained after the fight, he said.

The spokesman described the fighting in a recreation centre bowling alley and bar at Ier-John—a "high-spirited affair of inter-regimental rivalry."

Premier Lesage later commented that many Quebecers, peaceful and hospitable by nature, stayed away from the royal processions because of the threats of trouble made in advance by the terrorists.

The Quebec reception was reported abroad as a massive insult to the Queen of Canada, blackening the name of Canada around the world. QUEEN INSPECTS VAN DOORS AT CITADEL suggest the visit was ill timed, that Quebec rendered the worst insult ever offered a monarch and some suggest Quebec should be given greater status in Canada before the Queen returns in 1967 to take part in the 10th birthday of Canada. The Queen and Prince Philip who ended their eight-day visit on Tuesday were present to mark the first centennial in both Charlottetown and Quebec that began Confederation agreements. (AP Wirephoto)

Auto Workers New Strike Set

DETROIT (AP) — American Motors Corporation and the United Auto Workers Union have entered showdown negotiations that may determine whether the sole profit-sharing contract in the U.S. automotive industry will be renewed.

American Motors negotiators proposed to UAW representatives Monday that the UAW scrap the profit-sharing contract but the UAW refused to do it and is willing to gamble possible wage gains for it.

A strike deadline of midnight Thursday night faces the negotiators.

The American Motors dispute was not the only trouble spot on the management-labor relations front in the U.S. auto industry.

General Motors Corp. suggested to its automakers, still on strike, that they should accept a 45-cent wage increase. Only 45 of 130 attempted to supplement the previously negotiated national contract had been reached. That left 85 to go.

HEAVY STRIKE CALL — Ford, which also had agreed on a national contract and had settled on most of the plant supplements with the UAW, got a strike call from an unexpected source — the Pattern Makers League of North America (AFL-CIO).

Both company and pattern-maker workers agreed that a prolonged strike to this time would mean a membership of less than 100 within Ford's 100,000 hourly rated employees—round take Ford out of 1963-model production.

Wages, security and job security — above levels of the Ford-UAW contract issue—were at issue here.

At Least 65 Die Violently During Thanksgiving Holiday

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

At least 65 persons died accidentally in Canada while the roads enjoyed the Thanksgiving weekend—the last three-day holiday weekend since Christmas.

A survey by The Canadian Press from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Monday, local times, showed that 49 persons died on highways, eight were drowned, four died in fires, three in hunting accidents and nine in miscellaneous mishaps.

The 50 highway deaths were below a Canadian Traffic Safety Council prediction that 60 persons would die on the roads.

A recent 100 persons died on accidents last year during the three-day weekend, 42 of them on the highways. The reason for Thanksgiving holiday that five deaths was set in 1962 when 68 persons were killed.

A youth was killed when a train under the car's support, his body was crushed by the train.

Two persons died of cardiac trouble, poisoning in Nova Scotia and one was killed on a road. Prince Edward Island had one traffic fatality.

A baby suffocated at its home in British Columbia, two persons were drowned and one died in a fire in Saskatchewan. A man shot himself while getting out of a car and another was killed in a highway accident.

Newfoundland was a fatality-free zone.

The survey does not include industrial deaths, known suicides, slayings or natural deaths.

11 DEAD IN ONTARIO

Pope Paul May Intervene Between Factions At Council

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI was faced today with deciding whether to intervene in the most critical struggle so far between progressives and conservatives in the Roman Catholic ecumenical council at the Vatican.

Fifteen prominent cardinals, all progressives, asked the pontiff to act personally to prevent conservatives from sabotaging the desires of the council majority on key controversial issues.

There was speculation that the Pope himself had invited the petition from the progressives.

The European, American and Latin American cardinals petitioned the Pope Sunday night after they met to review what they called "the gravest crisis of the entire council."

They expressed fear that the co-ordinating commission and the council presidency, lately staffed by conservative church administrators from the Vatican Curia, plan to alter council action already taken on religious liberty, the Jews and the sharing of papal-episcopal power.

During the council's second session last year, the progressive element emerged far stronger in numbers than its bishops had realized. But the conservatives have retained their strength in the council administration as well as in the Curia.

Council sources said Pope

Paul might have let it be known discreetly that he would welcome a formal plea, outside the council hall, for him to take action.

Subway Strike Throttles London

LONDON (AP) — A subway strike over new work schedules brought chaos to commuters and choked London with street traffic Monday.

The dispute began when only 25 of 400 crews needed for the first shift reported for work.

No trains ran on the District Line, one of the capital's seven subway routes. On most of the remaining routes trains ran at half normal frequency.

The unions Monday night urged their members to stop the unofficial walkout and get back to work on the new schedules.

CONTROVERSIAL SEAPLANE BASE

The seaplane base, located on the waterfront between the railway and boat docks, is the centre of controversy as some residents of city council suggest a change of site. Mayor R. F. Parkinson appealed to the chamber of commerce for support in keeping the base where it is. Ald. Jack Bedford is moving the base and developing the land for recreation and the alderman says the congestion caused by boats and swimmers would keep pilots away.

Russia's Olympic Leadership Challenged By Free Nations

THEYSA (U.S.A.) tonight challenged the leadership of Russia in the 1964-65 Western Hockey League season only two games old. Los Angeles Blades are looking down on the rest of the circuit.

Blades jumped into first place by downing the hapless Victoria Maple Leafs 6-3 Saturday night.

The result gave Blades two straight victories, leaving them alone in first place. It also dropped the Maple Leafs into the cellar, with two consecutive defeats.

Other weekend action left the other four teams with 1-1 records. Seattle Totems defeated Vancouver Canucks 3-1 Saturday night and Portland Buckaroos blasted San Francisco Seals 7-2 Sunday.

The Los Angeles - Victoria encounter in the California city was a close one in the first period, with both teams scoring once. After that it was all Los Angeles.

Leo Labine led the Los Angeles scoring parade with two. Norm Johnson, Howie Young, Harold White and Haddon got the others. Milan Mariceta and Larry Keenan replied for Victoria.

In Seattle, the Totems took their revenge on Vancouver for a defeat on Canuck ice the previous night.

A battle of goalies Jim McDevitt of Seattle and Gilles Boisvert of Vancouver lasted almost two periods. Seattle then got past Boisvert with markers by Bill Macfarland, Bill Dineen and Guyle Fielder.

Buddy Boone got the only Canuck reply.

In San Francisco Sunday, it was strictly no contest.

Portland scored six times before the Seals ever hit the scoreboard. Tommy McVie topped Portland scorers with two goals and two assists. Pat Stapleton and Andy Heberton each got two and Art Jones one.

Jerry Ouellette and Gerry Okrowski scored for the Seals.

Jobs Are Becoming Fewer For Unskilled Workers

Automation. It is a word which brings a very real uneasiness to many Canadians. We are all aware of very rapid social changes which are taking place, and many people are aware of their consequences. Our era has been called the "technical revolution" and this revolution has profoundly affected the life of almost every Canadian.

Every adult is conscious of the many changes which have taken place in our life—radio, DDD, television, jet planes, automobiles, to name but four. Yet today's youngsters cannot imagine a world without these things. They indeed, a world without television which is only 12 years old and TV broadcasting in Canada began Sept. 8, 1952.

If they thought about it today's young leaders must wonder to wonder prepared a meal without opening cans or using frozen foods. Yet quick-frozen foods have been available only about 15 years.

The business machines, with their very rapid and accurate handling of simple accounting procedures, are bringing about large scale changes in the organization of many businesses, their effect on the ordinary person, however, is limited to changes in the type of bill he receives.

Most of these recent changes in our way of life have two factors in common: one, they are applications of science to the problems of daily life; two, they make more available and less costly the products of technology. The change which makes more and better products available, which promises a higher standard of living for everyone in the future, requires automation and automation produces unemployment.

But this unemployment is a special kind of unemployment. It has occurred during a period of economic boom, when the labor force is growing every year, when production and sales are increasing, when prices and wages are rising steadily. Economists call this kind of unemployment "structural unemployment." The central feature of structural unemployment in Canada is that there are many jobs available for highly-skilled workers, and few or none for unskilled workers.

Consider these facts: In 1959 70 per cent of all jobs in Canada were held by unskilled or semi-skilled workers, and only 22 per cent by skilled workers and technicians. In 1962, however, only 30 per cent of the available jobs were held by unskilled and semi-skilled workers, and 60 per cent were held by skilled workers and technicians. It is estimated that by 1975, 70 per cent of the available jobs will require skilled workers or technicians, and only 12 per cent will be open to unskilled or semi-skilled workers.

From these figures it seems to follow that the unemployed man in Canada today is likely to be the untrained one. And so it is during a period of high employment in one large Canadian city, the results of a survey showed that 70 per cent of the unemployed men had not passed the grade eight level.

The problem of structural unemployment is really the problem of inadequate education and training. Out of every 100 students who enter grade two in Canada, only 33 graduate from high school, and high school graduation is almost essential to becoming a skilled worker. Further, of the 33 who do graduate, only nine will enter university. The 24 per cent drop out of the educational system after graduation from high school are the unskilled, untrained prospects for further training as skilled workers in vocational schools or as technicians in technical institutes.

This, then, is the reason the problem has seemed to establish vocational schools and technical institutes at strategic points throughout the province. The purpose of these schools is to enable the presently unskilled and semi-skilled people to become skilled workers or technicians. It is an effect giving those who failed to complete their education, a second chance to become useful and productive citizens.

Most Bad Breath Not Fault Of Teeth

By JOSEPH MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Here is a question which has troubled me for some time. I have noticed that my breath is often bad, and I have been told that it is my teeth. I have had my teeth cleaned several times, but the problem persists. Is there anything else I can do?

Dear Sir: Most bad breath is not a fault of the teeth, but of the mouth. It is caused by bacteria which live in the mouth and produce a bad odor. This is often due to poor oral hygiene, but it can also be caused by a variety of other factors, such as a sinus infection or a stomach problem.

Here are some points on how to deal with the problem:

1. Is the breath really bad, or are you overreacting about it?

2. Do you eat a lot of fatty, rich foods that leave a coating on your tongue? If you are an onion or garlic lover, don't expect a breath like a baby's.

3. Diet for smoking. Even casual smokers sometimes acquire quite an odor.

4. Teeth. Yes, a toothbrush helps. And regular dental care is to prevent or correct cavities or a frequent cause of disease of the gums, is imperative. But food particles can be trapped in between perfectly sound teeth, and decay there, and resist the most assiduous brushing. This is one of the very common causes of bad breath, and the answer isn't very difficult. Use dental floss to clean between the teeth.

5. How's your nose? Most bad breath originates in the mouth, nose or throat. Catarrh, post-nasal discharge or "drip", chronic infections and such disorders of the nose may need attention.

6. Infected tonsils (and adenoids) can be contributors. Have your doctor look at them.

7. A "sour" odor can be a clue if digestive disorders are involved. This is not a frequent cause, but it can occur.

Speeches Attack Shastri

NEW DELHI (AP)—Some of Prime Minister Shastri's political enemies are attacking him with speeches like those he used against the British colonial rulers of India 20 years ago.

Shastri's government is being forced to treat the same way the British were.

The tactics involve little rough stuff, but plenty of fiery speeches, powerful denunciations of authority and courtship of the police to attack, arouse public opinion and fill the jails, or go on hunger strikes.

Shastri's government failed about 18,000 demonstrators in August, although some were held just a few hours. Hundreds more have been arrested since then during demonstrations against food shortages and rising prices.

Others have been jailed under the so-called defence of India rules, emergency legislation that gives the government extraordinary police powers.

Hunger strikes—an exceptionally emotional and dangerous type of protest in India—have broken out in scattered areas. Police have charged crowds in many cities, swinging lead-tipped clubs called lathis.

WASHINGTON CALLING

Man With A Satchel Guardian Of "A" Secrets

By GORDON DONALDSON
Daily Courier Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON (Special) — Everywhere the American President goes he is trailed by an insignificant-looking man with a brief case.

The man travels in the Presidential jet Air Force One and in motorcades. When the President is working in his office the man sits outside. At the end of his shift he hands the briefcase to the man who goes on sitting.

They are baby-sitting for the H-bomb. In the brief case is the "go-code" which the President needs to launch a nuclear attack. It is the war button.

Now the "go-code" and the man with the briefcase have become an election issue. A Goldwater study group wants to know how the code works and whether anyone but the President can use it.

The most damaging campaign charge against Republican candidate Goldwater is that he is irresponsible and unfit to control nuclear weapons. Evidence that he wants to give control of nuclear tactical atomic weapons to one of those U.S. generals in Europe.

In reply, the Republicans are trying to prove that certain generals already have secret authority to use the weapons without the President's okay. (It is that Mr. Johnson's system of control is so tight that in an emergency they couldn't be used in time.)

Mr. Johnson is working to extend a system called "permissive action links" which will block every U.S. bomb or missile so that it can only be used by a special radio signal.

At present the system covers only U.S. Air Force weapons in Europe, but "nukes" will eventually be placed on Strategic Air Command and NORAD warheads, including those on Canada's Bomarc anti-aircraft missiles at North Bay, Ontario, and La Macaza, Quebec. Canada has never had any authority to use the warheads on its own, only to prevent the U.S. using them.

The "go-code" brief case presumably contains an electronic gadget that will operate these links as well as the daily code signal to give SAC the go-ahead. President Johnson says he and he alone will give the order to use nuclear weapons. But what happens if he dies? What about the man with the briefcase?

Or what if he dies suddenly? There is no Vice-President until January and his official successor, the 72-year-old Speaker of the House of Representatives, obviously doesn't carry the code.

Does Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara have a go-code? Or one of his generals? McNamara isn't saying. He sticks by the assurance that he trusts that he'll keep Barry Goldwater's hand off the button.

JFK DEATH CAR

It was a shock to see the car in which John Kennedy died back on the road. President Johnson used it for the first time in a parade with the visiting President of the Philippines here last week.

The dark-tinted 1961 Lincoln Continental has been repainted black and rebuilt so extensively that only one-tenth of the original car remains. The old "bubble-top" which protected only against rain has been replaced with armor-plate and bullet-resistant glass. A more powerful V-8 motor and stronger suspension, transmission, steering and brakes have been installed to handle the 1,600 pounds of additional plating.

There are retractable running boards for Secret Service men. The two between front and back seats, which prevented Secret Service Agent Roy Kellerman jumping from his seat beside the driver and covering Kennedy's head, have been removed and replaced with a glass partition.

If Kellerman had reached Kennedy in the five seconds between first non-fatal shot and the one that killed him, the President need not have died.

The rebuilt Lincoln offers Johnson better but not complete protection.

So why keep it?

If Johnson wanted to display his famous fragility with public money he could have used a new car specially built at the same cost.

The Kennedy death car belongs in a museum like the relics of Lincoln's assassination—not in a parade.

It is too grisly a reminder of the mortality of Presidents and the violence of our times.

CAMPAIGN NOTES

By tradition reporters who follow the President in White House chartered press planes applaud every time the plane lands safely. On the Goldwater tour, officials who don't know the drill have been applauding when the plane takes off.

Lady Bird Johnson's Press Secretary advised newsmen left behind at whistlestops on her fast-moving train tour—"If you can't catch up with the train, take out residence, register and vote!"

Warmongers Don't Count In Modern Day Russia

MOSCOW (CP)—The splitters have joined the imperialists and colonialists as the favorite whipping boys of Soviet propaganda.

Warmongers hardly figure anymore.

"Splitters" is what the Soviet Communist leaders are calling Chinese Communist leaders. The label is intended to convey the idea that Peking exerts a divisive influence on the world Communist movement.

It has become the key word in the increasingly bitter Sino-Soviet dispute, part of the lexicon of Communism.

With its close associate, "splitting activities," it is one of the most frequently used words in the Moscow press.

Printed criticisms of the Chinese leadership have come in a steady stream in the vanguard of the attack are Pravda, the Communist party newspaper, and Izvestia, the Soviet government paper. In addition to their own articles and editorials they carry reprints of pieces published in other Communist countries lambasting the Chinese Reds.

It is not uncommon for the two big newspapers between them to carry six full-scale editorials, articles and reprints dealing with the controversy in one week.

Each blast brings a rejoinder from Peking, each rejoinder another blast, and so on ad infinitum.

CHINESE USE TERM

(For their part the Chinese return a compliment by also calling the Russians splitters.)

There still are regular denunciations of "U.S. imperialism" and "Western colonialism" or "neo-colonialism" in the Soviet press, but they carry nowhere near the bite of the broadsides aimed at China.

Doctors' Experiment

The doctors of British Columbia have been doing something which might well be emulated by doctors elsewhere in Canada, notes the Toronto Globe and Mail. They have been conducting a broad experiment to see if it is possible to close the gaps in the present system of private medical insurance plans, and they are prepared to subsidize this experiment themselves.

Among the people who are denied individual coverage by many medical insurance plans are the old—who are likely to have frequent need of a doctor—and those suffering from infirmities that are likely to continue or recur. These are high-risk cases, in insurance jargon. Yet they are also the people who are among those most in need of medical insurance.

The B.C. Medical Association, through Medical Services Inc., which is the B.C. version of Physicians Services Inc. in Ontario, a year ago launched a special plan which offered comprehensive coverage to anybody in the province regardless of age or state of health, who wanted to buy it. About 26,000 persons enrolled.

Last week the doctors met to review the results of the plan. They found that the premiums charged were insufficient to cover the medical services which this special group of patients required. But they decided to continue the experiment, salvaging it, at least for the time being, by agreeing to accept a one-sixth cut in their fees. The reduction will cost the doctors $45,000 in the next three months.

Instead of railing against the idea of a universal, government-controlled medical insurance plan, the B.C. doctors have tried to produce a plan which would remedy some of the defects of the present private plans. Their experiment has not been successful from their point of view; they have proved that high-risk cases cannot carry themselves without unduly high premiums or subsidization by the doctors, and that a scheme which spreads the risk is probably inevitable. But they have enlarged their and the public's knowledge of medical insurance.

This is the spirit in which all Canadian doctors might approach the matter, not with blank opposition or with suggestions for retreating from present promise and experiment.

"What are we getting out of Viet Nam?" asks an editor. We don't know, but whatever it may be, it certainly isn't good news.

ANN LANDERS

Asking Small Child's Opinion Is Ridiculous

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I are in our middle 30's. We married later than most people and now have a 5-year-old daughter. Penelope is very bright for her age and has the vocabulary of a 10-year-old.

Can you explain my husband's strange behavior? He is a very nice man, but he is asking Penelope for her opinion on everything. He asks her what she thinks about the food, the house, the car, and even the weather. It is ridiculous.

Yesterday we were discussing it again and my husband suggested we ask Penelope, so we did. Penelope made it clear that she is not a brooder and does not want a brother or sister. I don't see anything wrong with that.

Dear Ann: What I see is a couple of people in their middle 30's who are behaving like kids. Since when is this a decision for a 5-year-old? Is she running the family?

YOU, the mother, are the one who must have the baby and care for it. If you want another child have one. It may be just what Penelope (and your husband) need.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband is a loving and generous person. He has always treated me with respect and affection. We had a completely satisfying life together until his daughter, a former marriage, began to pay us visits. The girl, now 17, spends one month with us every summer.

My husband treats me so impersonally during her visits you'd think I was a servant. He even refuses to kiss me good night when his daughter is under our roof. I've tried fully grown exotic perfume, and specially

Two Volcanoes Stand Out In British Election Scene

LONDON (CP) — Two men of contrasting backgrounds and personalities are widely expected to lead the British general election campaign. The Conservative Party's secret weapon, Harold Wilson, the deputy leader, has been described as a "quiet" man, the Labour Party's new leader, James Callaghan, is a "loud" man. Both are expected to stand out in the election campaign.

LAWYER APPEALS POLICE SUSPENSIONS

Moonlighters Given Poetic Prod

TRENTON, N.J. (AP)—Lawyer Harvey Smith used verse to appeal the suspension of 22 New Jersey state troopers for moonlighting.

Smith led off his legal brief in this fashion:

Twenty-two state troopers, the appellants herein, had committed the cardinal moonlighting sin.

Not dreamt to be but for men in particular.

Was engaging to work that was extraordinary.

The state police superintendent had suspended the troopers from duty for engaging in part-time work outside their police duty hours. He held that they violated departmental rules in failing to obtain his permission. The troopers then filed Smith.

Smith found himself stymied by a shortage of verse for his appeal to a higher court.

"There was one case men-tional to ours," he explained. "The case of Beck v. Beck, N.J. case 50-1-1, where a husband told all I could say was 'look, this case is the same as ours,' and that wouldn't even have taken up a page and I'd feel ridiculous submitting a couple briefs."

The Newark police had won a dismissal of their suspension on the grounds that the standard of justice caused which the governing body could use in granting permission to moonlight to Smith.

This type of case has been tried before.

Over thirty-four pages, page five-and-four.

In the case of Beck v. Beck, the brief.

Judge Goldwater's opinion was quite clear and thorough. By dint of writing in rhyme, Smith managed to squeeze out 35 lines which ran the total to 115 pages.

By coincidence, appellate Judge Samuel Untermyer, who had been on the bench since the 1880s, was Baker's case is expected to head the three large panels which will hear the troopers' appeal next Tuesday.

U.S. Looks Good In Men's Diving

TOKYO (CP)—The United States appeared headed for a sweep of the medals in the men's springboard diving at the completion of the first seven compulsory and free dives today at the Olympic Games.

Three Americans held the top spots by a wide margin, with the final freestyle diving scheduled for Wednesday. Canada's Tom Dinsley of Vancouver added to gain the final, however, finishing 12th in the field of 27 divers.

Only the top eight qualified. Frank Gooden of the United States led the field with a total of 108.95 points. Larry Abderhalden was second with 104.31 points and Ken Stuberger third with 99.66.

Dentists Cut Experiment On Fluoride Toothpaste

LONDON (CP)—After a year's trial, two British dentists report that fluoride toothpaste is more effective in preventing tooth decay than ordinary toothpaste.

Their report, published in the British Dental Journal, says a scheduled four-year experiment among more than 1,000 school children in London is now under way.

The dentists, Geoffrey I. Stuckey and W. J. Martin of the London Hospital Medical College, Dental School, described their findings as "very promising" and said they "strongly recommend" the use of fluoride toothpaste as a preventive agent.

The Kent trial compared the results over a period of two years of a fluoride toothpaste and a non-fluoride preparation.

The survey was begun in 1962 after preliminary examinations had shown that the fluoride toothpaste was more effective.

The dentists said that the fluoride toothpaste was "very promising" and that they "strongly recommend" its use.

and would therefore form the basis for a preventive measure.

Children whose parents had agreed to take part in the experiment were allocated at random to the fluoride and non-fluoride groups.

There was no significant difference in the number of cavities between the two groups.

In these reports, the British dentists noted that the fluoride toothpaste was "very promising" and that they "strongly recommend" its use.

The age range of 11 to 15 was chosen for the trial because this is the age when most children have their permanent teeth.

NANAIMO, B.C. (CP)—The Nanaimo Board of Health is considering the permanent teeth of school children.

Reporter Sees Goldwater On U.S. Campaign Trail

Canadian Press reporter Carman Cumming, who recently spent a day following Barry Goldwater through New Jersey, in this story describes one stop along the campaign trail.

By CARMAN CUMMING
ARBUCKLE PARK, N.J. (CP)—

Just off the boardwalk, a tall, slender man in a dark suit and tie, a gold pipe in his mouth, stepped out of a crowd of people. He was Barry Goldwater.

A few of the 10,000 who were getting ready to see the Republican candidate were on the boardwalk. They were waiting for Goldwater.

But that didn't dim the spirit of the crowd. They were waiting for Goldwater.

Pretty young Goldwater girls, wearing blue jeans and red and white checkered scarves over their white blouses, numbered their banners.

On stage, local party candidates and officials from the town of Arbutus, N.J., were waiting for Goldwater.

With Goldwater on town but out of sight, the local got the rally under way with a series of musical notes and pre-arranged speeches.

The climax came as the curtains parted and Goldwater emerged with a smile.

The audience surged to its feet and chanted, "We want Barry."

Some of the reporters stood and clapped.

Goldwater was glad to be there, he said, because this was a new national holiday: Bobby Baker Day.

The crowd howled.

For those who might not know, Goldwater went on to explain that Bobby Baker Day had been proclaimed to celebrate "the biggest whitewash of the century."

It was just one year since Baker had resigned under fire as secretary to the Senate majority, and he'd been hiding in the White House basement ever since.

CALL FOR LBJ

That brought more tumult and when it died down, a small wedge of reporters for President Johnson set up an LBJ chant in the gallery above the rear entrance.

Goldwater bided his time, then pitched his voice to the farthest seat to declare: "I hope you people have more luck in getting LBJ than I have, because he hides all the time."

With the crowd back to normal, Goldwater started the ritual of head-patting the local candidates—all friends that he was glad to have beside him and would be even glad to have beside him in Washington.

With the boisterous section scoring now and then, Goldwater worked his way into his favorite theme—peace through preparedness and the need for a moral and physical strengthening of the United States.

He said the U.S. had been at war three times this century but had never gone to war under a Republican president. He had children and grandchildren and didn't want them to go to war. He himself had been in one war and that was enough.

He wound it up with a proven crowd-pleaser about sending Johnson and "all the dirt he swept under the rug" back to Texas, where Bobby Baker and Billy Sol Estes could help him run his ranch and television station.

Then the band swung into the Army Air Corps song again and there was pandemonium as Goldwater moved along the line of candidates, shaking hands.

Parliament Bugged Down Discussing Motion To Speed It

OTTAWA (CP)—A motion to have wide freedom in the length of debate on the House of Commons was defeated today.

The committee on the motion, which was headed by Mr. Pearson, rejected the motion by a vote of 10 to 8.

There was a breath-taking five-minute period when Mr. Pearson said he would not hold up the motion.

Three minutes were left in normal debating time, and the first motion was still before the House.

A Conservative speaker was still on his feet. It seemed certain that the holiday motion would be buried by the clock.

Then, with about 2 1/2 minutes to go, William H. A. Thomas (PC—Middlesex West) completed his speech.

Stanley Knowles (NDP—Winnipeg North Centre), who presented the committee report to the Commons on behalf of the Speaker, had about 90 seconds left in which to outline the holiday motion and see a vote taken before 5 p.m. deadline.

Mr. Knowles fired off his explanatory remarks.

HOLIDAYS NOT FIXED

Parliament has never had fixed statutory holidays. The reform committee recommended nine—New Year's, Good Friday, the Queen's official birthday, St. Jean Baptiste Day, Dominion Day, Labor Day, Thanksgiving Day, Remembrance Day and Christmas.

If anyone rose to speak, the Commons couldn't vote in the allotted time, and the motion could not normally be dealt with again until Monday.

But no one rose, and with a monumental sigh of relief, the decks were cleared for a Monday holiday.

Frank Howard (NDP—Skeena) rose after the motion had passed to indicate his opposition, but he did not give his reasons.

Creditline members earlier had indicated their opposition to a government motion for the House to take a holiday when the Queen is in Ottawa.

Virtually all the controversy over the first motion revolved around one recommendation by the all-party committee limiting debate on the resolution that precedes all money bills.

The debate now is unlimited, and the recommendation was held to 20 minutes.

Leading only a dummy's hand and your own, what should you play next?

If you continue with the ace, say,

Dawn Fraser Wins Three Gold

By MANNON DENERGIE
Dawn Fraser became the first person ever to win three straight gold medals in Olympic swimming tonight and tallied 15-year-old Sharon as her likely successor as queen of the freestyle races.

Sharon should be able to hit 25 seconds last year and the year after she should break the world record of 24.91, the Australian water wizard said.

"I would like to take her to Australia and coach her myself."

Miss Fraser, the "old lady" of the pools at 27, repeated her victories at Melbourne and Rome by winning the women's 100-metre free-style in 59.5 seconds.

Sharon, a rangy high school sophomore from Glendora, Calif., was just a flick behind her, taking the second-place silver medal in 59.9.

It was the first time Sharon had broken the one-minute barrier, once thought impossible for women, and she greeted the feat by bursting into tears.

"I'm just sentimental, I guess," she said, after having the silver medal draped around her neck.

The winning time knocked four-tenths of a second off the olympic record, which M.L.S. Stouder tied. Kathy Ellis of Indianapolis was third in 1:00.8.

Eye Specialist Slams Foods

MONTREAL (CP)—Dr. Elizabeth Cass, an eye specialist with the federal department of health and welfare, said Monday Indians and Eskimos in the Northwest Territories tend to develop eye disease when they begin to eat white men's foods.

Dr. Cass was addressing the American congress of ophthalmology, a gathering of eye doctors, in Montreal Monday.

Later, in an interview, Dr. Cass said she does not know why Indians develop shortsightedness with the change of diet, but has asked nutrition experts to investigate.

Dr. Cass said tuberculosis of the eye is another great problem in treating the eyes of the Eskimos and Indians to whom she has ministered since 1958. She is located in Fort Smith.

The ophthalmological convention continues all week.

Rutland High Penny Drive Sees Monashees In Lead

By MARLIE HENNINGS
The week started off by the school having a penny drive at home. This was done in the gymnasium with the Monashees, Canabees and Seabees competing.

All three teams brought into the gym to put down their pennies. Canabees and Seabees came in first.

At the end of the first day, the Monashees were ahead of the Seabees by a score of 11 cents and the Canabees were left way behind.

The second day, The Monashees had 11 cents, 17 and 17 cents.

Monday the total was 58 cents with the Monashees in the lead.

The money collected is to go to buying new tops for the school teams to wear during their games.

The house collecting the most money was 25 cents. This was the Seabees. The house collecting the least was 1 cent. This was the Canabees.

Monday after school the senior council came to order again. The members of the council were: Audrey Peckham, president; Linda Oves, vice-president; Linda Oves, secretary; and Margaret Waters, treasurer.

FASHIONS

After the council meeting, the school had a fashion parade with a contest to see who had the most interesting in seeing a fashion show.

Some of the fashions modeled were: the topless dress and the topless top.

This is the first time something like this is being shown at Rutland High. The show will be a success.

The Annual club sponsored by the senior council has also begun. The club is Audrey Peckham and Linda Oves. The members will be taking care of the annual show.

Japanese Squad Wins 58-37 Dimming Basketball Hopes

TOKYO (CP) — Canada's chances of going anywhere in Olympic basketball this year were reduced to almost nothing today when the Toronto-based team lost 58-37 to a superior Japanese squad.

It was the third straight loss for the Canadians and the first victory for the Japanese in the preliminary round in which each team plays seven times.

Despite the one-sided score the game was fast. The team from the Olympiad country repeatedly broke up Canadian passing attacks and led 25-10 at half-time. At one point in the second half Japan led by 21 points.

Fred Ingalsdon, a six-foot forward from Winnipeg and Canadian sports writer, said the loss was a blow to the team.
